Adobe offers a wide range of additional services to help you get the most from your new product purchase. Register for quality, authorized web-based or instructor-led training that fits your budget and schedule (http://www.adobe.com/go/training_ols).

We encourage you to take the time to register your new Adobe product. Once registered, you may be entitled to technical support and special offers, and can easily manage your account. Adobe will also have a record of your serial number in case you should lose it and need to reinstall your product in the future. Most products offer registration from within the product after installation if it detects an Internet connection and you know your Adobe ID (usually your email address) and password. You can also prompt registration by selecting Register from the Help menu in the program at any time. Products that are eligible for registration benefits must register from within the qualified product or from an invitation email notification. Or you may register now (<http://www.adobe.com/support/registration.html>).

Thanks again for your order. We hope you enjoy your product.
