

---

Subject: Re: Japan Hotels

---

From: Lex Larson (lexicon@gmail.com)

---

To: rodlarson100@yahoo.com;

---

Date: Monday, February 5, 2018 1:07 AM

---

I just realized I never hit "send" on my original reply -- whoops!

I've booked the MSP > Narita round trip flight. I opted to spend a bundle on the fancy sleeping cubicle seats because a) it looked much comfier and b) this is a special trip, so I want to get some rest on the flight! Here's the travel dates to/from Narita (Depart MSP 3/31 morning, arrive Narita 4/1 afternoon, then depart Narita 4/22 afternoon, arrive MSP 4/22 afternoon again.)

I wasn't able to find direct flights that wouldn't cut into my travel days, so I'm doing short (1-2 hr) layovers in Seattle on both legs. Oh, well!

My next step will be to look up flights from Narita to Cebu on Philippines Air, like last time. I'll let you know what I find to go from Narita to Cebu on the 14th or 15th, and then back from Cebu to Narita on the Sat 4/21.

On Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 12:10 PM, Rod Larson <rodlarson100@yahoo.com> wrote:

'Lex,

It is about time to get the hotel reservations for japan april trip (April 1 to 14) and get plane tickets too maybe. I will be putting together the actual itinerary in the next couple of days and I will start to check the Tokyo hotels. All sakura forecasts are saying our dates are good. The official gov't forecast does not come out for about another week. I want to get hotels before that cuz when that forecast hits the hotels go really fast.

So far, we would arrive on Sunday, April 1 in Tokyo, unless you can skip out on Friday, hehehehe. How about Royal Park hotel ? Did you like that one ? We would stay there for 3-4 days. Then move to Nagoya for at least 2 days (that's where our good Japanese friends live), then on to Kyoto, Osaka, and maybe Kobe. I will be putting together a list of things to do and see as well.

We would go to Philippines on Saturday, the 14th or Sunday the 15th. You could return to Tokyo on the 20th or 21st and return USA on Saturday or Sunday.

Dad

P.S. Jovie says HI !!!!!!!

--

Radioactive cats have 18 half-lives.

---

Attachments

- image.png (21.58KB)